beatbox™

speaker placement guide guide d'emplacement du haut-parleur guía para la ubicación del parlante

Some helpful guidelines from the Head Monster, Noel Lee, that will help you achieve the best performance from your Beatbox.™

Thank you for purchasing the Beats by Dr. Dre™ Beatbox from Monster.® Your Beatbox is designed and engineered to sound great anywhere you place it. But every space is different, so there are placements that will maximize the performance.

The home environment can present a challenge in choosing the best location for your Beatbox. Room layout, furniture, curtains and drapes, all can all play a role. The room can affect the sound of your Beatbox by the reflections it causes. Some frequencies will be amplified, while others may be reduced, altering the character of the sound. Any boundary surface (back wall, side wall, floor and ceiling) can cause a reflection. The trick is to place the Beatbox in a location that will take advantage of the acoustic properties of your room and give you the best overall balance of sound.

Distance to the side walls, back wall and corners can have the biggest impact on the sound of your Beatbox. The closer the Beatbox is to a wall, floor, or ceiling the more bass reinforcement you will get. Changing the location of the Beatbox in relation to these surfaces can dramatically affect both the quality and quantity of the bass. Maximum bass comes when it's placed in a corner.

The shape of Beatbox allows you to place it perfectly into a corner, giving you a great combo of space saving and deep bass. In fact, the response can be so deep, that in some rooms, you may find that you want to move it out from the corner to achieve the desired balance of low bass notes and high and mid tones.

The surface you place your beatbox on can also significantly impact the sound. The Beatbox is capable of extremely high volume levels and very deep bass response, which can vibrate the surface it is sitting on. This can add unwanted distortion to the sound and may even vibrate objects sitting on the same surface nearby. Make sure you place your Beatbox on a solid surface. Avoid using small folding tables or delicate furnishings that can vibrate.

The height of your Beatbox in relation to your listening position can also affect the sound quality. For example, if your Beatbox is placed high above you on a shelf or bookcase and you sit very close, almost under it, you may experience a dramatic drop in sound quality. Ideally, when practical, your Beatbox should be as close to ear level as possible and at least four feet away from your listening position for the best performance.

We encourage you to spend the time to experiment with the location of your Beatbox. Trial and error is the best way to hear how your Beatbox reacts in your environment. Don't rush through the process. Take your time to find the ideal location. Often, even moving it just several inches can create great improvements in sound quality in the room.

Sound is power

The digital revolution valued convenience and compromised the sonic integrity of the music. Beats by Dr. Dre™ is out to change that.

We believe that people want to hear the details and emotion of the tracks they play. They want to be moved by their music.

That's why Beats™ have been engineered to the exacting acoustic standards of Dr. Dre to deliver a dynamic, front and center sound. Like you're listening in the recording studio.

We are determined to elevate the sound of today's audio products. So everyone can hear the way music really feels.

The Story of Beats™

Three years ago, Jimmy Iovine and Dr. Dre were talking about the digital music revolution and what went wrong. Though technology had made music more accessible, the sound had suffered. People weren't hearing it the way artists intended. For two people so passionate about music, this was inexcusable. So they embarked on a journey to create better sound and steer digital music back in the right direction. It started with headphones. They hooked up with Monster® Founder Noel Lee who shared their vision, and collaborated with him to reinvent headphones for the digital age. Beats was born. Music was reborn.

"People aren't hearing all the music.

Artists and producers work hard in the studio perfecting their sound. But people can't really hear it with normal headphones.

Most headphones can't handle the bass, the detail, the dynamics. Bottom line, the music doesn't move you.

With Beats, people are going to hear what the artists hear, and listen to the music the way they should: the way I do."

Dr. Dre
